

STUDENTS UNABLE TO ATTEND BUNDABERG TRIALS

Students unable to attend BDSSS trials should make the Bundaberg Coach aware of this either directly or through their own school's Sports Coordinator. If the student is to be considered for BDSSS team selection, the Bundaberg Coach must be aware that the student is unable to trial BEFORE the trials commence. Once trials commence (and particularly after the BDSSS team is announced) there will be no further consideration of students for teams.

Students who are unable to attend BDSSS trials should:

- See their own school's sport coordinator to get an 'unable to attend trials' form.
  - Complete the form – including reason for non-participation at trials and a player profile section to assist in selector decisions.
  - Return the form to the school sport coordinator or the BDSSS coach within the timelines indicated on the form (see guidelines identified on form below):

Where at all possible students should make arrangements to participate in Bundaberg Trials; including rescheduling appointments or work commitments. Students should understand that failure to attend trials may, in some cases, disadvantage them in the selection process. If students are unable to attend trials or are unable to participate due to injury or illness please ensure you:

- Complete this section of the form
- Return this form (including a medical/ permission form) to your school's Sports Coordinator or the Bundaberg Coach.

Forms must be handed to your school's Sport Coordinator early on (or before) the day of Bundaberg trials in order to allow time for the Sports Coordinator to pass on your details to the Selectors BEFORE trials. Alternatively, this form can be given directly to the Bundaberg District Coach or delivered to selectors at the Trial venue prior to the commencement of Bundaberg trials. In all cases the Bundaberg Coach, Manager or Selectors MUST receive information about students who are unable to participate in Bundaberg Trials prior to the commencement of those trials if students are to be considered in the selection process.
